Showcasing players in environments that reflect their playing style can capture the distinctive look and feel of various football leagues and certain host cities. For example, a player can show up in Montevideo in a tan shirt and shorts, or New York City in blue and black. Each environment has a few variations to match a variety of playing styles, and many of them include clothing and cosmetic items that are only available in the selected playing style. 22 also introduces “Legion Mode,” a single-player campaign that allows you to play up to 4 different playable characters (the same 4 characters from the FIFA Ultimate Team®), complete with their individual skill sets, playing styles and game-changing abilities. FIFA 22 also introduces the “Ultimate Team”, a brand new format and progression system that allows you to build the Ultimate Team of players that you desire. By gathering experience points throughout “Legion Mode”, you can earn a free trial of the “Ultimate Team” that gives you access to thousands of players, stadiums and equipment, as well as items that can be further upgraded to further enhance your Ultimate Team. And, for the first time, the Master League mode features a new Seasonal Challenge Leagues that allow players to enjoy intense 2v2 competition and earn a reward for their effort. Lastly, FIFA 22 introduces “Control Your Own Story,” which allows you to take control of your character’s journey through their career. Players will have the opportunity to decide how they want to play, their style of play, how they want their career to develop over time, and ultimately decide their club’s destination in the UEFA Champions League™. EA SPORTS FIFA 22 will be available on Microsoft Windows PC, PlayStation®4 computer entertainment system and Xbox One on November 24. BEYOND THE GAME Eager to engage with fans on social media? Download the official FIFA app for Android and iOS. The app allows you to easily follow your favourite teams, players and your FIFA leagues, as well as create your Ultimate Team and compete in fantasy games. TECHNOLOGY “HyperMotion Technology” delivers a new form of realism that allows players to naturally move in ways that are fully linked to their playing style. “MotionLag Technology” allows players to control the ball with increased accuracy and precision compared to previous FIFA titles.

What's new:

- HyperMotion Technology (HMX), which leverages player motion data collected during a complete high intensity football match, two days later in life-like suits, and use this data to make your gameplay more authentic. To activate this in the FIFA roster, you'll see a Motion Capture button inside EA SPORTS Football, and on the Guide menu when you're on the Squad.
- Dynamic, Online Optimization with FT, Offline Optimization. Local squad and player sensitivity for offline can now be tuned.
- Goalkeeper, Long Shot. Long Shot now available via a kick or short pass from a teammate when you have the ball in order to clear a better shooting angle.
- Player Points Rework. We've undergone a major rework to the way we calculate player points for the FIFA Ultimate Team cards. Every card now has win odds you can actually calculate, plus bonuses and unsimulated factors are factored into the chances you'll earn these cards. We've also created new UI that makes it easier to tell how much a card is worth, so you can know if a card is worth the investment. It's also important to keep in mind that the odds are going to vary a great deal depending on how competitive you are playing for your Ultimate Team.

- Cards. There are a ton of changes in this update based on player feedback, including opportunities to attach a card to a single player, or multiple cards to a single player. One of the best success stories we heard about how a card enhanced a player's game was from one of the founders of the The EA TEAM World Manager community, who told us that one of the players who picked up the card they created got their soccer dream job working for the US Soccer Federation
